

The story of the Viking goddess Laura

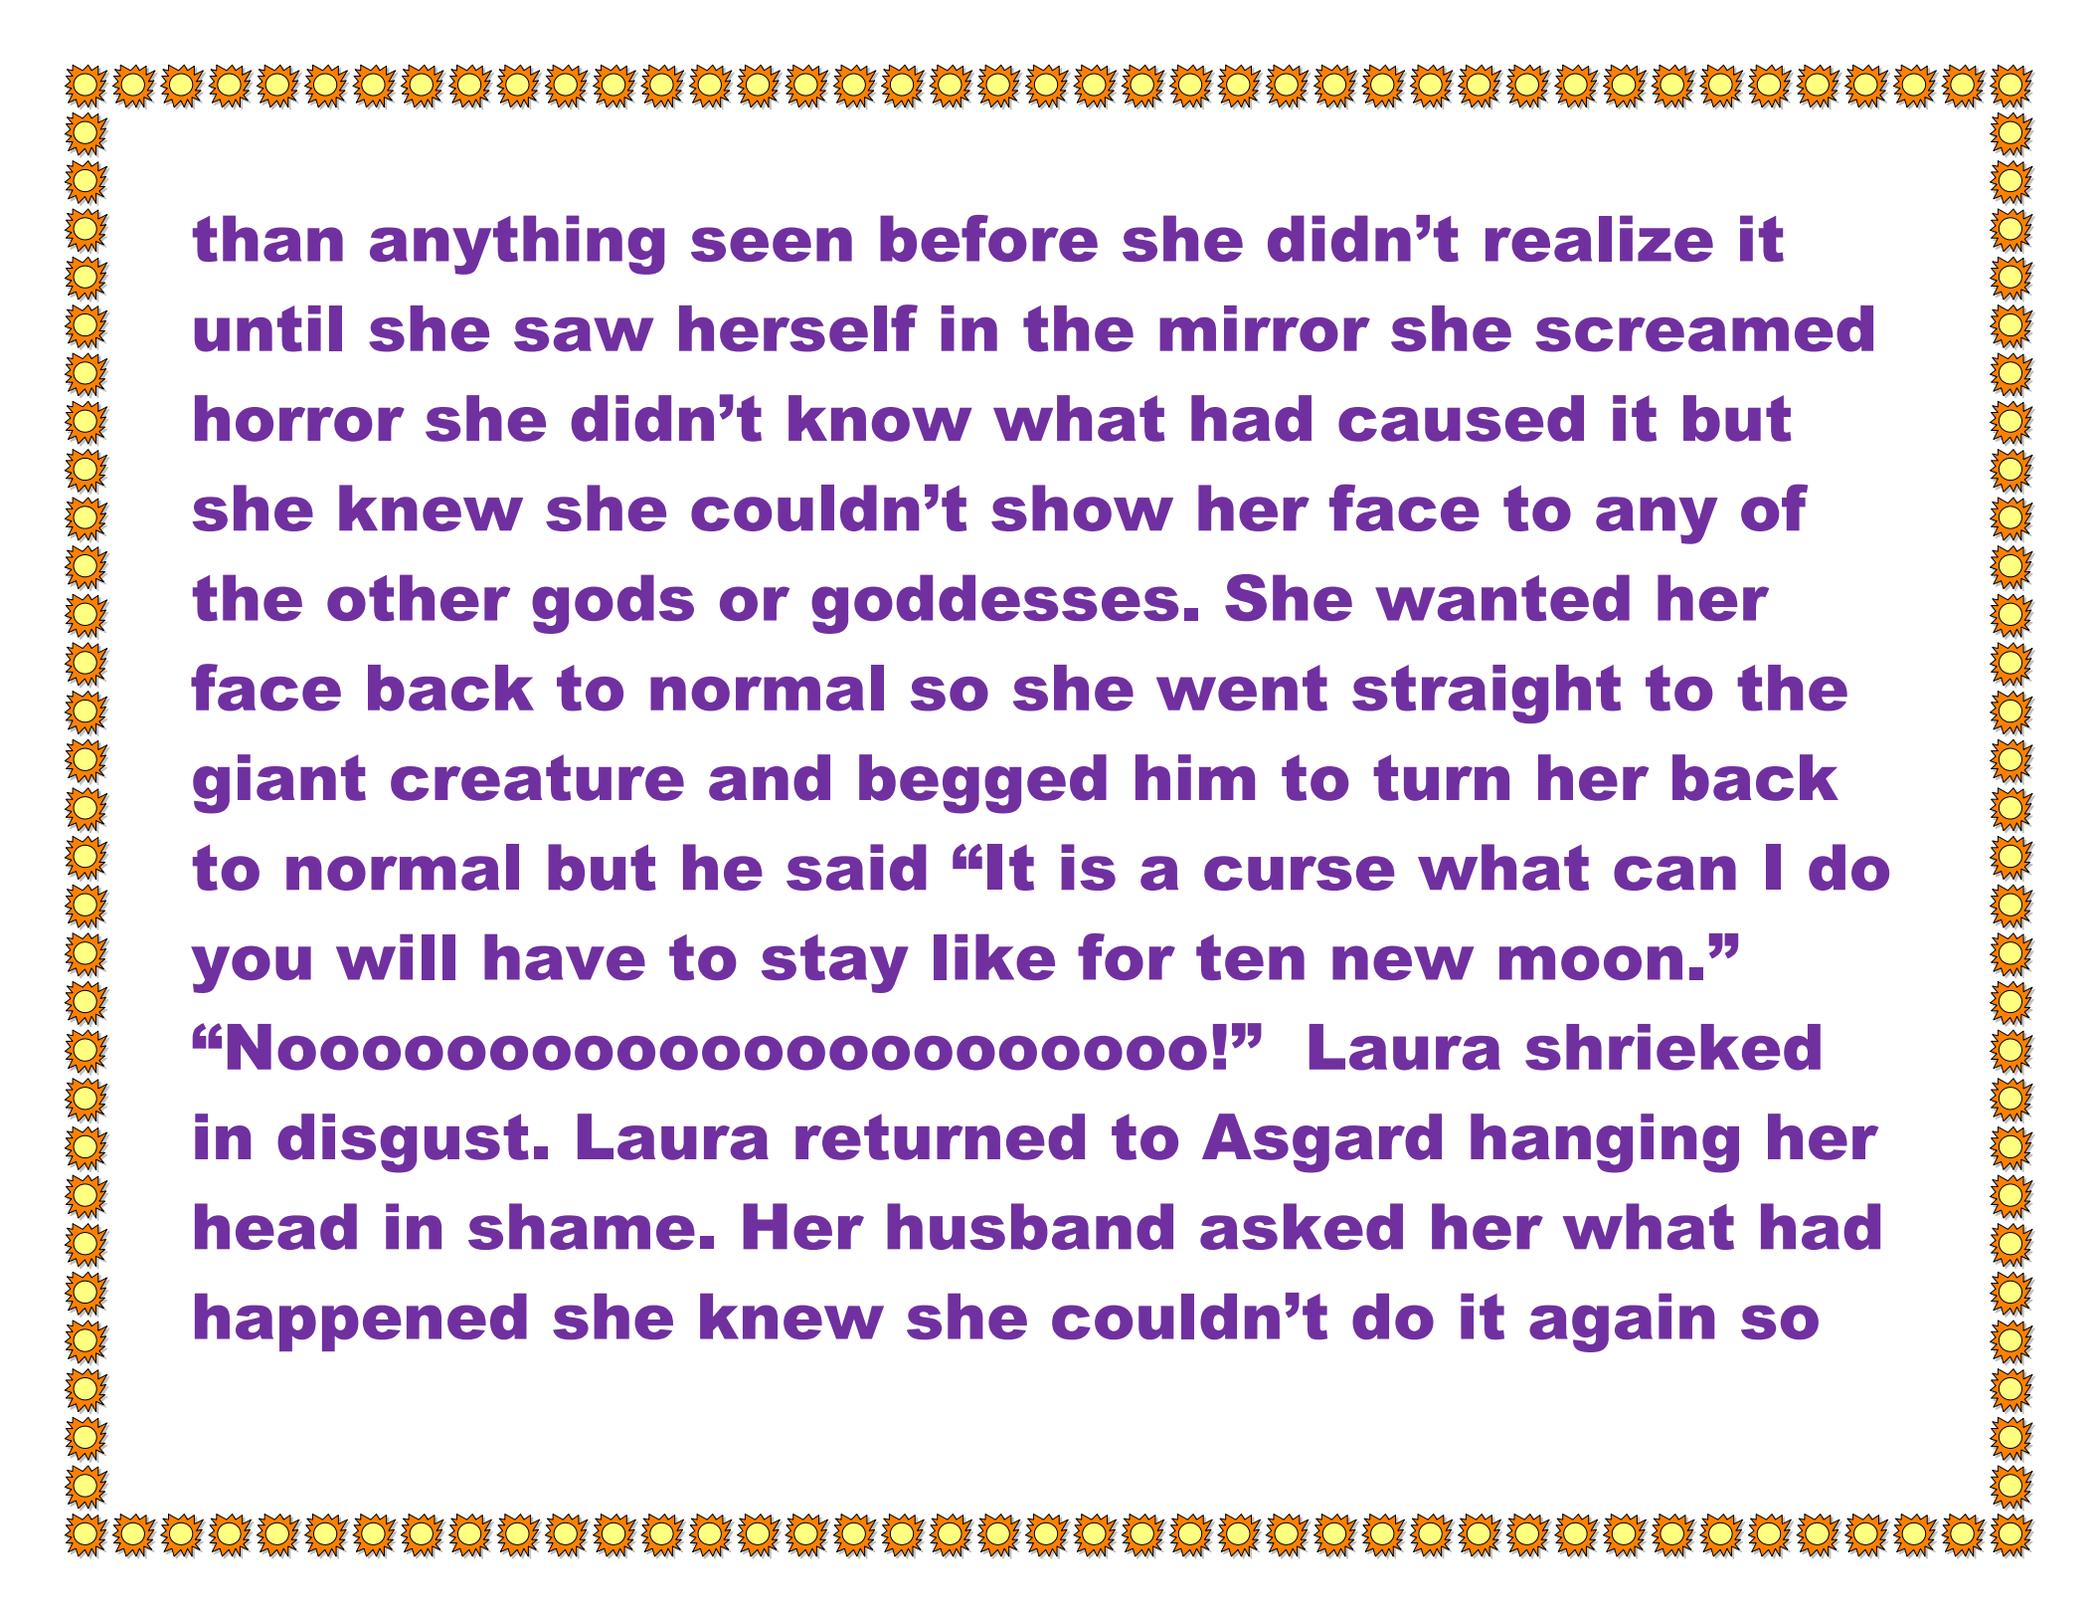

Once in a kingdom far, far, far away a goddess named Laura..... What you don't know about Laura? Oh dear oh dear right me, Diana and Laura are Viking gods. We live in a city called Asgard the city of gods. Laura was the prettiest goddess in the city of gods but one day Laura ask her husband Eric "Eric what shall I wear I've already showed every one my designer outfits what else could I possibly wear!” uh oh Eric thought so he tried to stop her from getting into trouble by saying” Dear you already are the prettiest goddess in the whole world!” he shivered in horror as he said these words but it was no use she turned bright red and shouted “I’m going to get what I want. Huh.” So she stomped off over the rainbow bridge to Midgard the home of the humans. “Argh it’s scorching hot if this keeps up I’ll get burned oh no!” she moaned luckily there was a cave behind a waterfall where she could have a rest from the sun. It was dark, damp and smelly. In a distance she saw a twinkle of light flash in the corner of her eye. Suddenly, a ginormous 12 eyed monster crawling towards her she asked pretty please can I have this fire ruby necklace he said that she could have on one condition in excitement she said “I’ll do anything just name it oh please oh please oh please so he said “you will have to tell me how all the gods and goddesses stay young?” so Laura replied “That’s easy we eat a magical apple. Duh!” so she got the ruby red necklace without knowing that it was cursed..... Suddenly her eyes narrowed, her teeth grew pointy and her gorgeous face turned revolting than anything seen before she didn't realize it until she saw herself in the mirror she screamed horror she didn't know what had caused it but she knew she couldn't show her face to any of the other gods or goddesses. She wanted her face back to normal so she went straight to the giant creature and begged him to turn her back to normal but he said "It is a curse what can I do you will have to stay like for ten new moon." "Noooooooooooooooooooooooooooo!" Laura shrieked in disgust. Laura returned to Asgard hanging her head in shame. Her husband asked her what had happened she knew she couldn't do it again so from that day on she never asked for any thing again. Eric was so pleased she didn't ask for anything any more that he brought Laura the original fire ruby necklace.

THE END

